MIRRORS & LIGHTS

CHOOSING THE RIGHT MIRROR & LIGHTING

- The colour temperature (K) of a bulb or LED spotlight defines the type of light diffused and therefore the atmosphere in your bathroom.
- Bulbs with a colour temperature of 6000 K give off a cold light, close to daylight.
- Bulbs with a colour of 4000 to 4200K diffuse a softer, neutral white light that does not tire the eyes.
- Lumen / Watt: The Lumen (lm) indicates the intensity of the light produced by a light, while the Watt measures the energy consumed. For the same amount of power consumption, LED lighting delivers a greater amount of light.

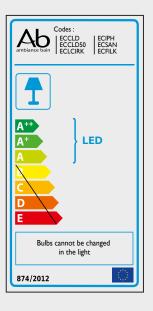

The light emitted by a wall light or mirror cannot be the only light in the bathroom. It is an ambient light and additional lighting of the room is strongly recommended.
